Marie McKiernan focuses her practice on patent, trademark, trade secret and copyright litigation.

During law school, Marie participated in a co-op internship program, interning at the First Circuit Court of Appeals for the Honorable Norman H. Stahl and the US Food and Drug Administration's Office of Chief Counsel. While completing her Masters at Tufts University, Marie did research for the Tufts Center for the Study of Drug Development, analyzing the development of personalized medicines.

After graduating from the dual-degree program, Marie interned with Wolf Greenfield for four months prior to beginning a judicial clerkship for the Honorable Mary Thomas Sullivan of the Massachusetts Appeals Court. Prior to joining the firm, Marie was an associate at Peabody & Arnold, where she served as insurance coverage and monitoring counsel on behalf of insurers.
